Highlights of Koedo Kawagoe

1 Kurazukuri Zone

蔵造りの町並み一番街 Kura no machi (Old Town Ichibangai Street) MAP C-3

Japanese homes once had strong buildings called "Kura" for on-property storage of household tools. Since these buildings were very fire-resistant, they developed into residential buildings and stores in Kawagoe. This zone is a culturally significant area where the atmosphere of a town about 120 years ago can be experienced.

This museum displays various materials, photographs, and actual floats used for the Kawagoe Festival, a festival with more than 370 years of history. You can experience the liveliness and exciting atmosphere of the festival through video and audio.

川越まつり Kawagoe Festival 3rd Sat./Sun. of Oct.

Huge, elaborate figures on top of majestic floats are paraded throughout the central Kawagoe. The floats coming close, facing each other, then competing as a Japanese orchestra (flute, taiko drum, gong, dancing) is a must-see event, especially the exciting climax in the evening.

A building where a bell has been rung to announce the time since the early Edo Period (1627–1634). The current tower is the fourth version after the tower was re-built immediately after the Great Fire of Kawagoe (1893). Its towering presence over the kurazukuri (storehouse) town has become a symbol of Little Edo, Kawagoe.

The bell is rung four times daily (6:00 a.m., 12:00 p.m., 3:00 p.m., 6:00 p.m.), and its sound has been selected as one of "100 Soundscapes of Japan: Preserving Our Heritage" by the Ministry of the Environment.

大沢家住宅 Osawa House MAP C-2

Built by a wealthy kimono merchant in 1792 in the middle of the Edo period, this is the oldest storehouse in Kawagoe. It survived a major fire during the Meiji era, after which Kawagoe's merchants banded together to build storehouses. Folk crafts can be purchased on the first floor.

Constructed in 1925, this building served as the residence of the retired fifth-generation master (known as Kashichi) of the old-and-renowned Kameya sweets shop. The building itself, which was designed by the architect Katsuya Yasuoka and is decorated in a blend of Japanese and western styles, and the scenic garden, are both very impressive.

Kashiya Yokochi consists of traditional sweet shops, hard candy shops, and senbei (rice cracker) shops along a narrow street nearly 80 meters long. Hard candy, fugashi (wheat gluten sweets), senbei, dango (skewered rice flour dumplings) and other inexpensive, traditional sweets well-known to the Japanese can be bought. While you are trying the sweets, enjoy a stroll along a street with many old shops.
